The Healing Wounds of Jesus

Mystical and Scientific Insights into Christ's Actual Passion, Which He Suffered for You

compiled by Terry A. Modica
Jesus revealed to Sts. Gertrude, Bridget, Mechtilde and Catharine of Sienna that those who meditate on His Passion are very dear to Him.

St. Augustine wrote that “there is no more profitable occupation for the soul than to meditate daily on the Passion of Our Lord.” Why is this?

Blessed Denis the Carthusian said: “If we love Him not because He is good, because He is God, let us at least love Him because He has suffered so many things for our salvation.”

The following is a series of descriptions of how Jesus suffered for you, as revealed by saints and mystics through the centuries and by scientists today. The Church teaches that private revelations, such as those included here, may be used to deepen our faith, but they are not essential to believe, because only Holy Scripture and Church doctrine are incontrovertibly true. The material in this booklet has been compiled to help you find healing through Jesus, to give you a deeper experience of His love, and to inspire you to return that love more fully.

The crucifixes we see today are cleaned-up versions of the horrible torture Our Lord suffered out of love for us. Keep in mind, as you meditate on the graphic images in this ebook, that Jesus gladly and willingly subjected Himself to these intense pains because HE LOVES YOU!

\[\text{It was our infirmities that He bore, our sufferings that He endured... He was pierced for our offenses, crushed for our sins, upon Him was the chastisement that makes us whole, by His stripes we were healed. (Isaiah 53:4,5)}\]

St. Bridget of Sweden believed that Jesus said this to her:

“Be it known that the number of armed soldiers were 150; those who trailed Me while I was bound were 23. The executioners of justice were 83; the blows received on My head were 150; those on My stomach, 108; kicks on My shoulders, 80. I was led, bound with cords and by the hair, 24 times; spits in the face were 180; I was beaten on the body 6666 times; beaten on the head, 110 times. I was roughly pushed, and at 12 o’clock was lifted up by the hair; pricked with thorns and pulled by the beard 23 times; received 20 wounds on the head; thorns of marine junks [thorns on ropes], 72; pricks of thorns in the head, 110; mortal thorns in the forehead, 3. I was afterwards flogged and dressed as a mocked king; wounds in the Body, 1000. The soldiers who led Me to Calvary were 608; those who watched Me were 3, and those who mocked Me were 1008; the drops of Blood which I lost were 28,430.”

Many were amazed at Him, so marred was His look beyond that of man, and His appearance beyond that of mortals. (Isaiah 52: 14)

We should not be amazed simply because we are not used to seeing Jesus this way. After all, doesn’t it make sense that Jesus suffered to the Nth degree, since the sins of humankind are so innumerable? And doesn’t it make sense that Satan would have inspired Jesus’ tormentors to inflict all of his own rage and revenge against the Son of God, since he mistakenly thought that at last he was defeating the Man who held the biggest threat to his evil kingdom?

Let us be amazed, instead, at how much Jesus loves us, how much suffering Jesus chose to put Himself through in order to rescue us from sin and death. Let us be amazed at how very much He wants to heal us, for:

\[\text{By His wounds you have been healed. (1 Peter 2:24)}\]

The saints, mystics and scientists quoted in these pages are:

- St. Bridget of Sweden (1303-1373), visionary.
- Venerable Maria d’Agreda (1602-1665), visionary.
- St. Alphonsus de Liguori (1696-1787), Bishop and Doctor of the Church.
- Sr. Anne Catherine Emmerich (1774-1824), visionary and stigmatist.
- Sr. Josefa Menendez (1890-1923), visionary.
- Sr. Teresa Neumann (1898-mid 1900s), visionary and stigmatist.
- Msgr. Julio Ricci (present, Rome), expert on the Holy Shroud of Turin who has spent 30 years investigating every tiny mark on the Shroud.
- Dr. Robert Buckley (present, Los Angeles), forensic pathologist.
The Garden of Pain

Josefa: The hour had come for the Son of God made man, Redeemer of the human race, to shed His Blood and give His life for the world... I withdrew into the Garden of Gethsemane, that is to say into solitude... It was thus I offered Myself to carry out the redemption of the world...

At the same moment I felt all the torments of My Passion burst overwhelmingly upon Me:... the insults... the scourging and the Crown of Thorns, the thirst... the Cross... thronged before My eyes and pressed upon My Heart, while at one and the same time I saw all the offenses, sins and crimes that were to be committed throughout the ages... I not only witnessed them all, but was invested in them....

And there burst upon Me the wrath of an angry God, and in order to appease His Majesty I offered Myself as security for sinful man....

After having been comforted by an angel sent by My Father, suddenly I saw Judas coming, one of the Twelve, and with him those who were come to take Me prisoner.... After he had given Me the traitor's kiss, Judas left the garden, and realizing the gravity of his crime, gave way to despair. Who can measure My sorrow at the sight of My apostle casting himself into hell!

St. Alphonsus: He saw Himself affronted by his own disciples. One of them betrays and sells Him for thirty pieces. Another denies Him many times, protesting publicly that he knows Him not; and thus testifying that he was ashamed to have known Him in the past. The other disciples, then, at seeing Him taken and bound, all fly and abandon Him.

O my Jesus, thus abandoned, who will ever take up Thy defense?

Jesus in Prison

St. Alphonsus: After having proclaimed Him guilty of death... the rabble set themselves to ill-treat Him all the night through with blows, and buffetts, and kicks, with plucking out His beard, and even spitting in His face, by mocking Him as a false prophet.

Ah, my Jesus, how is it that Thou art so humble and I so proud?

O Lord, give me light, make me know Who Thou art, and who I am.

“To be spit upon is to suffer the extreme of insult,” says Origen. Where are we wont to spit except in the most filthy place?

Josefa: Contemplate Me in the prison where I spent the greater part of the night. The soldiers came and, adding words to injuries, insulted Me, mocked Me, outraged Me, and gave Me blows on My face and on My whole Body. Tired of their sport, at length they left Me bound and alone in the dark and noisome place, where, seated on a stone, My aching Body was cramped with cold....

In the prison I endured cold, sleeplessness, hunger and thirst, pain, shame, solitude, and desertion. And there passed before My mind's eye all the tabernacles where in the course of the ages I should lack the shelter of love.... And how often should I wait for this or that other soul to visit Me in the Blessed Sacrament and receive Me into his heart....

And in the prison when they pushed Me and let Me fall to the ground bound and helpless, so many were present to My mind who would prefer a moment's satisfaction to Me.
The Healing Wounds of Jesus

Anne Catherine: When the executioners found it impossible to drag the woolen garment... over His head, on account of the crown of thorns, they tore off this most painful crown, thus reopening every wound.... He shook.... As He was unable to stand, they led Him to a large stone and placed Him roughly down upon it, but no sooner was He seated than they aggravated His sufferings by putting the crown of thorns on His head.

Josefa: The hour has come! The executioners stretch Me upon the Cross. They violently seize and extend My arms that My hands may reach the holes they have prepared in the wood. Every shock causes My thorn-crowned head to come into violent contact with the Cross... the thorns are driven deeper and deeper into it.

St. Alphonsus: After the nailing of one of His hands, the nerves shrink so that they had need of main force and ropes, as was revealed by St. Bridget, to draw the other hand and the feet up to the places where they were to be nailed; and this occasioned so great a tension on the nerves and veins, that they broke assunder with a violent convulsion.

Ah, my Jesus, by what power was it that Thy hands and Thy feet were nailed to this wood, but by the love Thou didst bear to men?

Venerable Maria, as she understood the Blessed Mother to say: Then the executioners ordered the Savior to stretch Himself on the Cross in order that they might mark the places where the holes were to be bored for the nails. The Savior obeyed without a murmur, but the wicked men did not make the marks for the holes in the places corresponding with the dimensions of His Body, but wider assunder in order to inflict upon Him a new and unheard-of martyrdom...

The executioners ordered Him a second time to stretch Himself on the Cross in order that they might nail Him to it. The Savior obeyed.... Immediately, one of the executioners seized His hand and pressed it down on the hole in the arm of the Cross while another executioner took a big nail with rough edges and with a hammer drove it through the (hard bone of the) Savior's hand.

Anne Catherine: When the executioners perceived that His left hand did not reach the hole... they... pulled the left hand violently until it reached the place prepared for it. They again knelt on Him, tied down His arms and drove a second nail into His left hand.

Teresa: When His hands have been nailed, Our Savior raises His two feet trembling, for He writhes under the pain.

Josefa: Having nailed My hands, they pull pitilessly at My feet; My wounds burst open afresh... the nerves are severed... the bones dislocated... the torture is unspeakable!

Anne Catherine: They fastened a rope to His right leg and dragged it violently... and then tied it down as tightly as possible. The agony which Jesus suffered was indescribable.... They then fastened His left foot to His right and, having first bored a hole through them with a sort of piercer, they took a very long nail and drove it completely through both feet (which they pressed down to lay flat against the beam).

Josefa: See thy Jesus extended on the Cross, without honor or liberty. He cannot stir hand or foot.... Nothing remains to Him.
St. Alphonsus: Behold how, on that gibbet of pain, fastened by those cruel nails, He finds no place of rest. Now He leans His weight upon His hands, now upon His feet; but on what-part-soever He leans, the anguish increases. He turns His afflicted head, now on one side, now on the other: if He lets it fall towards His breast, the hands, by the additional weight, are rent the more; if He lowers it towards His shoulders, the shoulders are pierced with the thorns; if He leans it back upon the Cross, the thorns enter the more deeply into the head....

O my crucified Redeemer, I adore Thee on this throne of ignominy and pain...

With humility, then, and tenderness do I draw near to kiss Thy sacred feet, transfixed for love of me...

While Jesus was dying upon the Cross, the men who were around Him never ceased to torment Him with reproaches and insults.... And Jesus, while these are outraged Him, what is He doing upon the Cross?... Says St. Thomas: to show forth the immense love which He had for men, the Redeemer asked pardon of God for His very crucifiers....

Ah, my dear Savior, behold me at Thy feet: I have been one of the most ungrateful of Thy persecutors; do Thou for me likewise pray Thy Father to pardon me...

Jesus, seeing that He found no one to console Him upon this earth, raised His eyes and His Heart to His Father, craving relief from Him. But the Eternal Father, beholding the Son clad in the garment of a sinner, replied, No, my Son, I cannot give Thee consolation now that Thou art making satisfaction to my justice for all the sins of men.

And it was the will of the loving Redeemer, adds St. Cyprian, to die bereft of every consolation, to give proof to us of His love, and to draw to Himself all our love.

Ah, my Lord, who wert so left in desolation, be Thou my comfort in my desolations!

Behold Jesus, at length, actually dying. Behold Him, my soul, how He is in His agony amid the last respirations of His life. Behold those dying eyes, that face so pale, that feebly palpitating heart, that Body already wrapped in the arms of death.

Teresa: His whole Body begins to look bluish, His eyes sink deeper into their sockets, His face and nose pointed and drawn, and the color of His face almost yellowish-grey.

Josefa: Look at My Heart: It cannot contain the ardor with which It longs to impart Itself, and deliver Itself over, and remain always with sinners. How I long for them to open their hearts to Me, to enclose Me in them, and that the fire that consumes Mine should fortify and enkindle theirs....

With enthusiasm, with vehemence It is sacrificed, It is immolated, It is given for those It loves.... The Holy Eucharist is love to the extreme of folly.

What is your response to this love?

Jesus is speaking to you. He is asking you to receive more love from Him than you ever have before. He died for you. He suffered for you. Even if you were the only person on this Earth, He would have done it — for you.

What can you do to receive this love? You can say "yes!" to Him. You can say, "Yes, Jesus, I want You to be my Savior, the Lord of my life. Reveal Your Love to me more than I've ever experienced it before. Penetrate Your Love into every part of my life, every part of my being. I am sorry for all the times I have offended You. Please transform me into someone who can fully live in Your Love. Thank You, Jesus!"

The next time you're in church, look at the Tabernacle. Jesus is physically and powerfully present there. Sit with Him. He longs for you to spend time in His Presence. He misses you when you forget about Him. He has much that He wants to say to you, much love that He wants to give you.

When you receive the Sacrament of the Eucharist, pause for a moment to thank Jesus for what He did for you during His Passion and Crucifixion. Reflect on the fact that you hold Jesus — not a piece of bread — in your hand and in your mouth! It is His way of continuing to pour out His love!

As Blessed Teresa of Calcutta said, "When you look at the crucifix, you know that He loved you — past tense. But when you look at the Holy Eucharist, you know that He still loves you."

With such powerful love available, how can you stay away from Mass? Jesus is saying, "Come, my special friend, come! There is so much more love that I want to give you. Come to Me!"
